For: The importance of running a laundry service at a reasonable cost to the patient by the hospital needs no emphasis. The importance of a clean environment and linen for optimal patient care has been stressed upon since the very inception of hospitals. A sick person coming to the alien environment of the hospital gets tremendously influenced and soothed by the aesthetics or cleanliness of the surroundings and the linen. Clean linen is an aid to reduction of hospital acquired infections. The main objective of the laundry service will be to provide better patient care through properly planned and cleaned linen supplies.
